Don't believe in "Push button" systems that will make you rich overnight. As in "offline" job, making money on the internet requires your effort. But if you do it right you can make many shortcuts to your profits which can be much higher than in your everyday offline job and you can also experience the magic of passive income.

There are many ways of making money online and you can start wherever you want. But there is one way which proves to be most effective to begin with and you can also practice it in any area of your interest. And this is INTERNET MARKETING.

Internet marketing is simply selling your own or someone's else products (as an affiliate) or both in ideal case. And the best thing is that you can really decide in which area you will operate and the bigger your passion for this area is the bigger your profits will be.

How to choose your market

When starting your own online business it is very important to choose right market in which you will have chances to be most successful and make higher profits.

What is a market

Market is simply a group of people who have common problem and want to solve it. This definition tells you what you need to be successful in making money online.

Your work (and also source of profits) is to help these people solve their problem. What you need to do is find or create product or service that solves their problem and sell it to people of your market. Does it sound simple? It is if you do it right way!

How to find best market for you

Choosing right market is not hard and right choice will dramatically increase your success. The most important thing you must think of when selecting your market is your passion.

You absolutely must choose the area you have passion for as your market. And it is far more important than knowledge you have in given area. You will gain knowledge easily if you have passion!

How to find out if your market is profitable

After choosing your market you must check if it is profitable. First and foremost you should consider these things:

- Size of the market
- How many people are in the market.

The basic way to figure it out is use free keyword research tool. Better solution is to consider buying some tool. Some of them are for good price and are very powerful and you can also successfully use it for other purposes than estimating market size.

Check monetization opportunities

Are there products or services that are selling well at this market? And the basic way how you can figure this out is to checking the best selling products on Amazon. Other ways are looking on paid advertisement.

Competition

Get know your competition but don't be afraid of it.

You can even gain profits from it by selling their best products as an affiliate. Simple thing you may do is to look at top pages from your market. Use Google ;-).

Get to know your market

After you chose your market (remember that you must have passion for it!) it is now time to get to know it well. Actually the more you know your market the better position you are in because you can get more opportunities for making your profits.

It is mainly about UNDERSTANDING who the people from your market are, WHAT PROBLEMS do they have and WHAT SOLUTION you can offer them.

The best thing to get understand your market is to BE ON IT. And the best way how to achieve this is to use internet.

Find your market FORUMS. Forums are great places to get better understanding of your market. Find out what QUESTIONS and PROBLEMS people from your market have, think about solutions or ask them what would help them.

Find and read several blogs and discussions below posts.

Explore the sites of your 'competitors'. What products are there within your market. Find reviews of that products. How useful people find them? Is there anything they miss?

Take use of all these information. If you find very good product you would buy and use yourself, consider to sell it as affiliate and get commissions from seller of the product. Or if you find out that people need something different that is missing on the market consider creating your own BEST OF ALL PRODUCT (really, it may not be as hard as it sounds ;-)).

Make your business plan to succeed

As You know, working from home is different from employee work. As an employee you have usually your duties set by your employer and you don't need to carry about other thinks like how will be the results of your work used, how to get and keep customers or how well is the company going and so on.

When working from home (and I will talk about making money online here because this is the area I am in) you have to take care of pretty everything. Making money on your own could bring you many benefits and also very interesting profits, if you do it right. So to begin properly it is very important to make a good plan before you start.

Such a plan:

- will help you to organize your time and other sources
- will reduce the risk of being unsuccessful
- will ensure and maximize your future profits

Keep it simple

You don't need to solve every detail of your business at this stage. You will use your plan as a road map and you can change/add/optimize its parts in the future.

Your plan should have at least:

Goals definitions

WHAT you want to achieve and WHEN. Make Your goals measurable and realizable. Also make your goals BIG to achieve BIG RESULTS. Divide main goal into sever sub-goals.

How you will get there

HOW you will fulfil your goals. What actions will you take, what resources do you have - time, money, will you use outsourcing for some actions?, ..etc.

Possible risks and how do you precede them

Try to think about all possible risks and what you will do to precede them. Think also how you will minimize your looses if something will go wrong. Consider for example things like home insurance, partial employment to cover your necessities before you establish your home business, diversification of your of your income streams,..etc.

Also consider what resources you will need to start and run your business.

You will get more ideas of what you want to have in your plan during it's creation. Include all things you consider useful but don't make it complicated.

How to work effectively

Your time is one of your most valuable asset but it is also a scarce resource. When you are making money online with your own home business the way you manage your time has critical effect on your success and profits.

Many techniques exist that will help you with it and they are known as TIME MANAGEMENT. Start with choosing several of them and get use to using them.

Focus on effective things

As first rule try to do only effective things and by that I actually mean the things that will MAKE YOU MONEY. Try to eliminate as many things as you can that are taking your time but don't bring you profits.

Remember that what you do in your time determines your results dramatically.

Use effective tools

There are many tools available that can save you a HUGE amount of your precious time. Some of them are free but consider also paid ones which can offer you more powerful features. Be careful when choosing one, read user reviews and listen to recommendations of credible people. Also many of those paid tools are offered in trial version so you can easily try them for free and then decide whether you buy it.

Make your actions plan

Make your actions plan - time schedule which will always tell what you should do at given time. You will then have your activities well organized and you will see easily how effectively you are using your time.

Consider outsourcing certain activities

As your experience will grow you will be able to identify certain important but time consuming activities which could be performed by someone else for reasonable price. Do that as soon as you can to save your own time which you can then use to greatly improve your profits. There is effective way how to find proper people and outsource your work.

Remember that if you perform effective actions regularly you are on best way to your success!
